Sheriff's deputy shot & killed near Dunnigan

A Yolo County deputy was shot to death Sunday night.

According to a Yolo County Sheriff's Department spokeswoman, the incident began about 7 p.m., when Davis police issued a "be on the lookout" alert for Marco Topete, reported to be driving under the influence with a child in the vehicle. At about 9:30 p.m., Sheriff's Deputy Jose Antonio "Tony" Diaz spotted Topete's car and tried to stop it.

The car failed to yield, and Diaz followed it into the town of Dunnigan, where it stopped on County Road 5 near Road 99W. After making the stop, the deputy called for emergency backup – and said he had been shot.

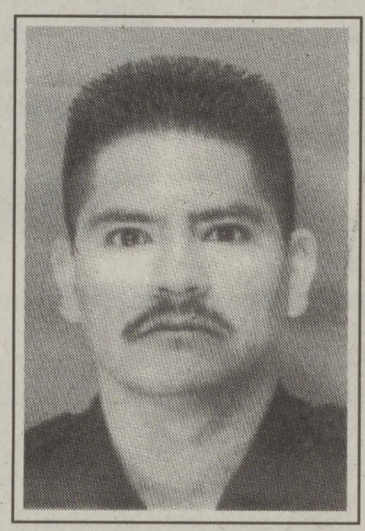
Topete, a 35-year old Arbuckle resident, fled on foot.

The deputy was taken to Woodland Memorial Hospital, where "aggressive cardiopulmonary resuscitative efforts" failed. He was pronounced dead at 10:55 p.m. The cause of death was a single gunshot wound to the left chest area.

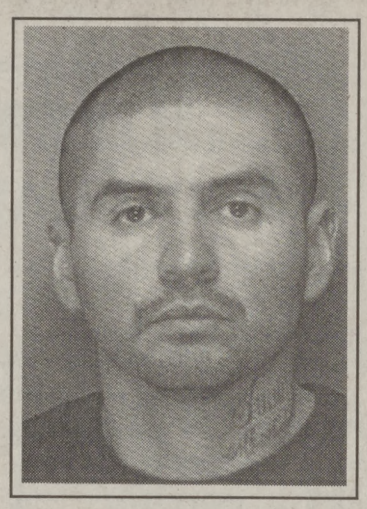
Meanwhile, a massive search effort ensued for Topete. The sheriff's department was joined by elements of the FBI and CHP; sheriff's departments from Sacramento, Colusa and Sutter; and police from West Sacramento, Davis, Woodland, Winters and UC Davis. The support included air units, SWAT and K-9 officers.

A Yolo County SWAT team found Topete near County Road 88 and Road 4 at about 8 a.m. on Monday. He was arrested without incident and charged with first-degree murder at the county jail. He was then transported to Sacramento County jail and is scheduled for arraignment this afternoon in Yolo Superior Court.

Deputy Diaz was 37-years old. Sworn in as a deputy in 2004, he had previously worked for the county information technology department. He was the father of girls age two, four and 16.



Deputy 'Tony' Diaz leaves behind three daughters. He became interested in being a sheriff's deputy after working with the department as a county information technology employee.

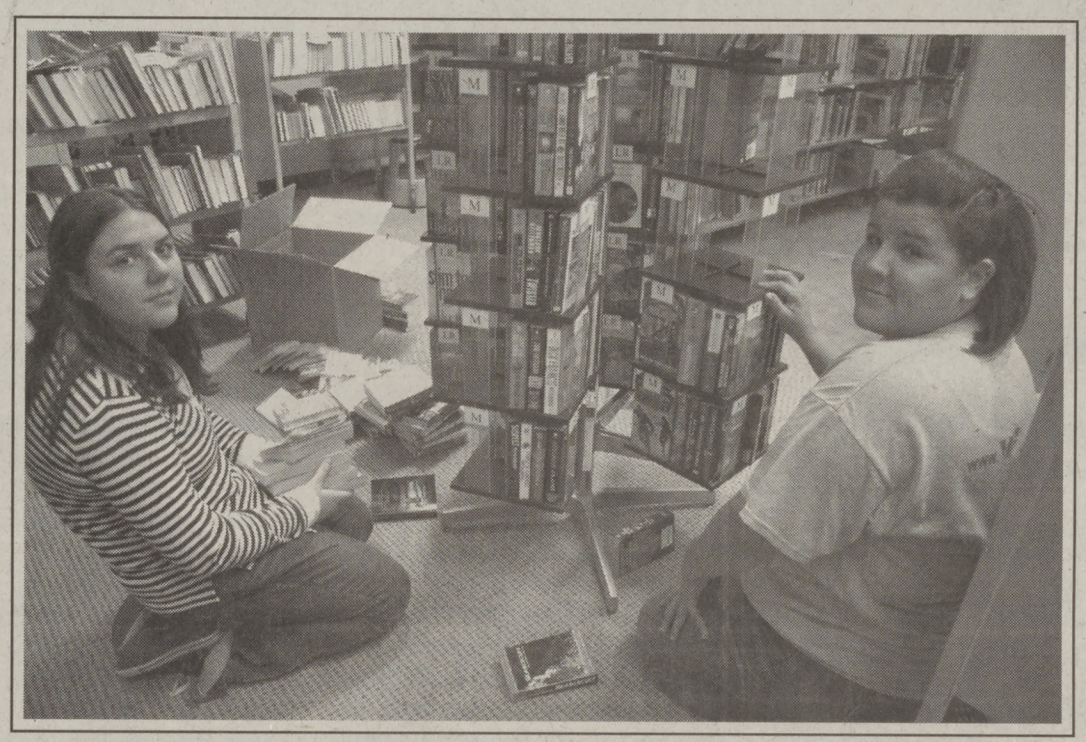


Suspect Marco Topete was last in custody in January after a parole violation, said the sheriff's office. He will be arraigned today in the shooting death of Deputy Diaz.

"This is a dark day for Yolo County," said Sheriff Ed Prieto on Monday morning. "Deputy Diaz was a very kind man. His life was taken away at a very young age. He will be missed and our hearts go out to his family."

The County Board of Supervisors ordered flags flown at half-mast.

Reshelving everything



LEFT: Volunteer Alex Kareyev and Library Assistant Carly Brotherton were among the staff bustling around a former bank building on June 6, getting ready for last week's opening of a temporary library branch.

The Arthur F. Turner Branch moved from 1212 Merkley -- where its home is scheduled to be demolished and replaced -- to 840 Jefferson Boulevard, at Merkley Avenue.

In 18 months, the branch is expected to move back into new digs.

The temporary home has formerly been a Wells Fargo bank and a commercial real estate office, among other things.

WUSD considers contract extension for Supe

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

West Sacramento's school board will consider extending the contract of its superintendent next week. The contract will not include a pay raise, reported board president Barry Kalar, but it will provide job security for Steven Lawrence for another three years.

"There are no changes (in the contract) that I'm aware of," Kalar said. "Usually, superintendents get a three-year contract, but we didn't renew last year. The contract includes no pay raises, in light of the economic situation and the budget shortfall."

Superintendent Steve Lawrence came to Washington Unified School District from Roseville's district in 2006. His contract is currently set to expire in June, 2009. It includes a salary bracketed between $140,000 and $170,000 per year, depending on the board's perception of his performance. The contract also includes a $500 per month expense account and a benefits package.

Board member David Westin has sometimes been at odds with Lawrence, and with other board members. He questioned the new contract, which is scheduled for discussion on June 26.

"It seems to handcuff the new board, if there is a change of the board in the fall (elections), because this would go three years into their term," Westin commented.

He also said that the board is making its decision on "two year old data" instead of waiting for the latest student test results to be released in August. Waiting would allow the board to better job Lawrence's performance, said Westin.

"It seems questionable we're doing an evaluation based on two-year old data when we could wait a couple of months," he said.

Lawrence was on vacation this week.

Same-sex marriages keeping Yolo Clerk's office busy

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

It's been a busy week so far at the Yolo County Clerk's office in Woodland.

Following a court ruling, civil "same-sex marriages" became available in California after 5 p.m. on Monday. Yolo County Clerk/Recorder Freddie Oakley and her staff were one of several counties in the state to start issuing same-sex marriage certificates and conducting same-sex civil ceremonies right away. Her office stayed open after 5 p.m. on Monday to handle the new clientele, ready with their appointments.

"We held 11 ceremonies last night," reported Chief Deputy Clerk Barbara Patenaude on Tuesday. "We stayed until 8 p.m. We just finished our tenth ceremony today. Tomorrow, we have six ceremonies scheduled, and at least four are (same-sex)."

Patenaude said she believed all the ceremonies Monday evening and Tuesday were same-sex unions.

The new law has made the office extra busy, even for the wedding-friendly month of June.

"It wouldn't be unusual to have a couple of ceremonies a day in June, normally," she commented. "Our biggest wedding day ever was a Valentine's Day, with 14 couples."

She said that the same-sex couples taking advantage of the new law include people from both Yolo County and outside areas.

"I handled three 'issuances of license,'" said Pautenade. "One couple was from Davis, one from West Sacramento and one from Woodland."

A marriage license costs $75 in Yolo County, and it costs another $50 to have a ceremony performed by a clerk. The county offers another way to get married, as well:

"We do a 'marriage commissioner of the day' – someone can come in, get some training and marry one couple. The fee is $50."

Is the clerk's office seeing protesters angry with the legalization of same-sex marriage?

"There were some out on the street," she replied. "They weren't in the building. We're receiving a lot of nice compliments and a lot of requests for information."

Anyone wanting information on getting married – either same sex or otherwise – can reach the office at (530) 666-8130.

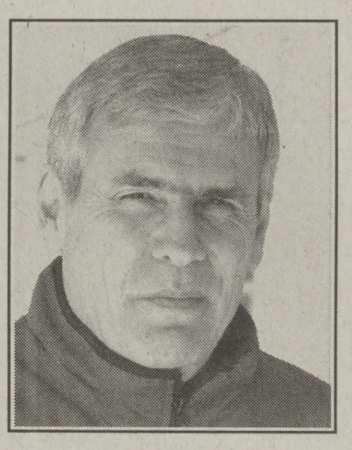
Do you suffer from 'poor body image'?

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

Editor's note: Daryl is on vacation back in the Midwest for the next few weeks. Below is one of his favorite columns from the past:

The older I get the more I realize just how dense I am when it comes to understanding the opposite sex. But I do think I may have recently stumbled across a tiny little truth which men everywhere need to immediately pass along to their male offspring.

"What are you pontificating about now?" asked a longtime friend of mine who is usually even more confused about how the female mind works than I am.

"I'm serious," I said to him. "Women all over the place are suffering from this poor body image thing, and I'm convinced that it's at the heart of a lot of their strange behavior."

"I'm afraid you're going to have to be a little bit more specific," said my friend, yawning.

"Okay, here goes. Women think about bodies – especially their own – in one way," I explained, "and they just assume us guys also think that way, too – and they're totally wrong."

"How so?"

"Well," I said, warming to the topic, "for example, say you're strolling down a street and you suddenly see a woman you're really attracted to – what is the very first thing you notice about her?"

"Well," said my friend with a smile, "I guess that would depend."

"On what?"

"On if my wife was strolling down the street with me."

"You're all by yourself," I assured my friend.

"Okay, well, in that case, if she had sexy legs, I guess I'd probably notice them first. But if she had great hair or a nice rear end, I might look at that, too. It's kinda hard to say. It would depend on what stands out the most."

"Exactly!" I exclaimed. "That's the way all guys do it. We see one thing that really attracts us and we focus all our attention on that one feature. It can be anything from sparkling eyes to great feet, but because we're all kind of slow-witted, we're really only capable of concentrating on one or two things at any given time."

"And your point is?"

"My point is that when women look at their bodies in a mirror, they absolutely insist on seeing the total package, and if any one little area is all screwed up, they hate their whole body, which inevitably puts them in a bad mood, and guys everywhere are suffering because of it. Women just don't understand that they don't have to be perfect to be attractive. Guys just need to stumble across one nice body part that's pretty or interesting and then they're perfectly happy, and every woman has at least one of those."

"And you really think this is an earth-shattering insight, do you?" asked my friend.

"Of course it is! It directly affects everything from mood swings in women to the national divorce rate."

"The national divorce rate?"

"That's right," I continued. "I firmly believe that one of the main reasons so many women decide to stay married forever is because their body image is so bad they prefer boredom and indifference to the terror of letting another man look at them without their clothes on."

When my friend finally stopped laughing, he said, "And just when did you first stumble across this little theory of yours?"

"Well, I guess I've known that men and women think differently about their bodies ever since college when a girl I had been dating for almost a year suddenly blurted out, `I want to really thank you for never having once said a single thing about my nose'. `What's wrong with your nose?' I asked her. `Well, to begin with, it's way too big for my face,' she answered. `It's not as big as mine', I assured her. `That's not the point,' she said. `What is the point?' I asked her. `The point is that I hate my nose!' Anyway, when I told her I had never even given her nose a moment's thought, and that it looked just fine to me, she was absolutely sure I was lying to her."

"So, in summing this all up, you think women are wasting a lot of their time trying to come up with the perfect body when in reality, most men would never get around to appreciating all of it anyway."

"Yes! And they're making themselves – and men everywhere — miserable in the process. Here, I'll give you another example of just how clueless guys are when it comes to this stuff. I was talking to an otherwise very rational friend a few weeks ago when she suddenly cried out, `Now stop that!' `Stop what?' I asked her, wondering what I had done wrong. `Stop looking at my pimple!' she ordered me. `What pimple?' I asked, totally unaware that one even existed. `The one on my forehead,' she informed me, pointing to a barely noticeable blemish.

"Then what did you do?" asked my friend.

"I did what I always do when I don't have the foggiest idea of what a woman is talking about – I apologized."

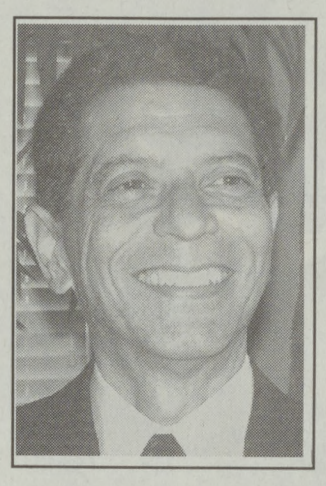
SPORTS INSIDER

By Richard Novoa



By Richard Novoa

It took Tiger Woods a sudden-death playoff hole to deny the 45-year old Rocco Mediate his place in PGA golf history. Even if you don't like golf or understand how people can chase a little white ball around a green field filled with sand traps and large trees, you had to enjoy watching a huge underdog give the best golfer on the planet a run for his money, especially on Father's Day!

It was Tiger vs. Rocco — or was it "Rocky"! Anyway, in the end it was the 32-year-old Tiger who won the 108th U.S. Open, on the 18th green, in a forced playoff scenario after playing his 90th hole in five days.

The two golfers, who were even at par 71 after 18 holes were forced into sudden death playoff, much to the delight of the sun drenched crowd and a national television audience. The U.S. Open is the only one of the four majors that requires an extra 18 holes to determine its champion.

Tiger thrilled his fans with a great comeback after trailing the board leaders throughout the tournament. Tiger, who was visibly limping around the beautiful Torrey Pines golf course in San Diego, is still recovering after knee surgery on April 15th. It was estimated that he walked about 7.2 miles per day on the 18-hole course, which would amount to around 36 miles of walking in 5 days.

NBA Finals

The Boston Celtics (3-2) have Kobe and his Lakers on the ropes as the series moves back to the Boston Garden for Game 6 and maybe Game 7. I mistakenly wrote last week that game seven would be played in Los Angeles which was wrong. I forgot that Boston had the home court advantage and that the NBA went to a 2-3-2 format. Pardon!

Anyway, this series has the making of the best NBA finals in league history with no team (0-28) ever winning the title after being down 3-1. If Kobe can carry the Lakers on his back on Tuesday night and win Game six, lookout for a classic overtime thriller in Game 7.

But if Kobe continues to struggle with Boston's triple team and having Paul Pierce in his face all day or if his lazy teammates continue dragging their rear ends around the court behind the Boston Celtics hungry front line – the Boston Celtics will be crowned the new 2008 NBA Champions!

Korner Kicks

The 2008 Euro Cup is heading into the quarterfinals with the Netherlands (Holland) looking like the team to beat. The Netherlands will face either Sweden or Russia, the winner of the runner-up of Group D on Saturday, June 21st and Spain will tangle with the second place winner of Group C (Italy vs. France) on Sunday, June 22nd.

The two other quarterfinals are set with Portugal playing the tournament favorite Germany on Thursday, June 19th and Croatia with face Turkey on June 20th. All the remaining Euro cup games will be televised live on different ESPN channels with ABC showing a couple of games including the Final on Sunday, June 29th. All game times are scheduled for 2:45 p.m. PST.

The United States World Cup team breezed through an 8-0 win on Sunday in Carson, California over a very weak Barbados team. The two teams will meet again Sunday, June 22nd (noon-ESPN classic) in Barbados.

Mexico's national team had problems beating Belize in their 2-0 win. Mexico is the top-ranked team in the North and Central American and Caribbean region and No. 14 in the world while Belize is No. 172. The two teams will play again on Saturday in Monterrey, Mexico.

Diamond Notes

The Oakland A's (38-31) swept the Giants (31-40) into McCovey Cove this weekend with a convincing three game sweep of the G-Men. In front of a sellout crowd of 41,547 fans at AT&T Park, San Francisco lost its sixth consecutive game, and eighth of its last nine games to the Oakland A's.

Despite playing before packed houses throughout the three-game series, the Giants could only muster up four runs in 27 innings. Also, Barry Zito (2-10) lost another game to his ex-team mates but what I found amazing was his fastest pitch was clock at 84 mph which is a long ways from rookie pitcher Tim Lincecum's 99 mph fastball.

The Giants are playing inter-conferences this week at home against Detroit before they travel to KC to play the Royals over the weekend while the A's visit Arizona until Friday night when they return home to host the Florida Marlins over the weekend.

The River Cats are home this week hosting the Fresno Grizzlies (Giants farm team) through Friday night before the Gatos fly off to Salt Lake City to play the Bees this weekend.

Between the Ropes

Boxing on Wednesday night, June 18th at 7 p.m. at the Arco Arena with the main event featuring Speedy Gonzales (27-1) vs. Cornelius Lock (17-3) but the best bout will be Woodland's Vicente Escobedo (17-1) against Christian Favela (15-5-4). Tickets start at $25.

Enjoy your day – see ya next week!

Now here's a tip! by Jo Ann Derson

• Here's a great way to get a charcoal fire started. Use a coffee can with both ends removed. Punch holes in the bottom third of the can. Put it in your grill, add two or three crumpled newspaper sheets to the bottom and then pile the charcoal briquettes on top to about two-thirds full. Light the newspaper through the bottom holes and wait for the fire to get all the briquettes nice and hot. Remove with tongs and the briquettes spread out like magic, ready to use. Happy grilling!

• F.F. from Colorado writes with a great tip for cleaning vases: "Two tablets of Alka-Seltzer in a flower vase filled with water will make the stains fizz away."

• "When boiling eggs, put about 1/2 teaspoon of vinegar into the water. It makes the shell pull off with ease. Also, if you like, after boiling for about five minutes, you can turn off the burner and put a lid on the pot. The eggs will keep cooking." — S.H. in Ohio

• To get the most out of increasingly expensive facial creams, moisturizers and foundation, make sure you apply them in the correct order and give them some time to be absorbed into the skin. Use toner first, then any serum products, then moisturizers (give it a full three minutes to soak in) and then sunscreen. Then you can apply your makeup products.

K-9 cops give $1,000

West Sacramento K-9 officers (and their dogs) with the teen center's executive director: Officer Dave Stallions, Officer Geoffrey Albert, the teen center's Dave Dove and Officer Roger Kinney

The West Sacramento K-9 Association officers donated $1,000 to the Collings West Sacramento teen Center on June 4. The dog-handling officers raised the money in a winter fundraiser.

The teen center provides an after-school haven for older teens for older teens, but has closed its doors for the summer, except for special programs.

"The first year we were open, in 2004, we were open for the summer," explained the center's executive director, Dave Dove. "Because we focus on high school kids, we had a very low turnout. Since then, we've focused on after-school activities."

Dove added that the center is now trying to raise money to help the facility get on an even financial keel.

"We're in the middle of a capital campaign to retire the debt on the building," he said of the Merkley Avenue facility. "That will help a lot. We're looking for additional partners."

City photo contest draws 700 entries, for biggest turnout yet

From the City of West Sacramento

Prize winners in the annual "15 Days in May" photo contest were announced June 12 by the West Sacramento City Council. Top photos will be featured at www.cityofwestsacramento.org.

First-place winners received $1,000 cash, second place brought $500 and third place winners took home $250 each. This year, prizes also included three "honorable mention" awards in the new "Mayor's Image of Health" category, where the honorees each received a three-month membership to 15th Street Fitness.

Nearly 700 photographs were entered. For the first time, contestants were allowed to enter two images, if one was in the "Mayor's Image of Health" category.

Winners in that category were Scott Schaffner, first place; Charles Bates, second; and Elijah Dove, third. Honorable mention winners were Lea Adams, Danil Kozin and Viktoriya Neverov.

Winners in the under-18 category for West Sacramento residents were (all awards listed in order from first place): Elijah Dove, Liza Smirnova and Alek Penkov. Elija was the only winner in two categories, taking a third in "Image of Health."

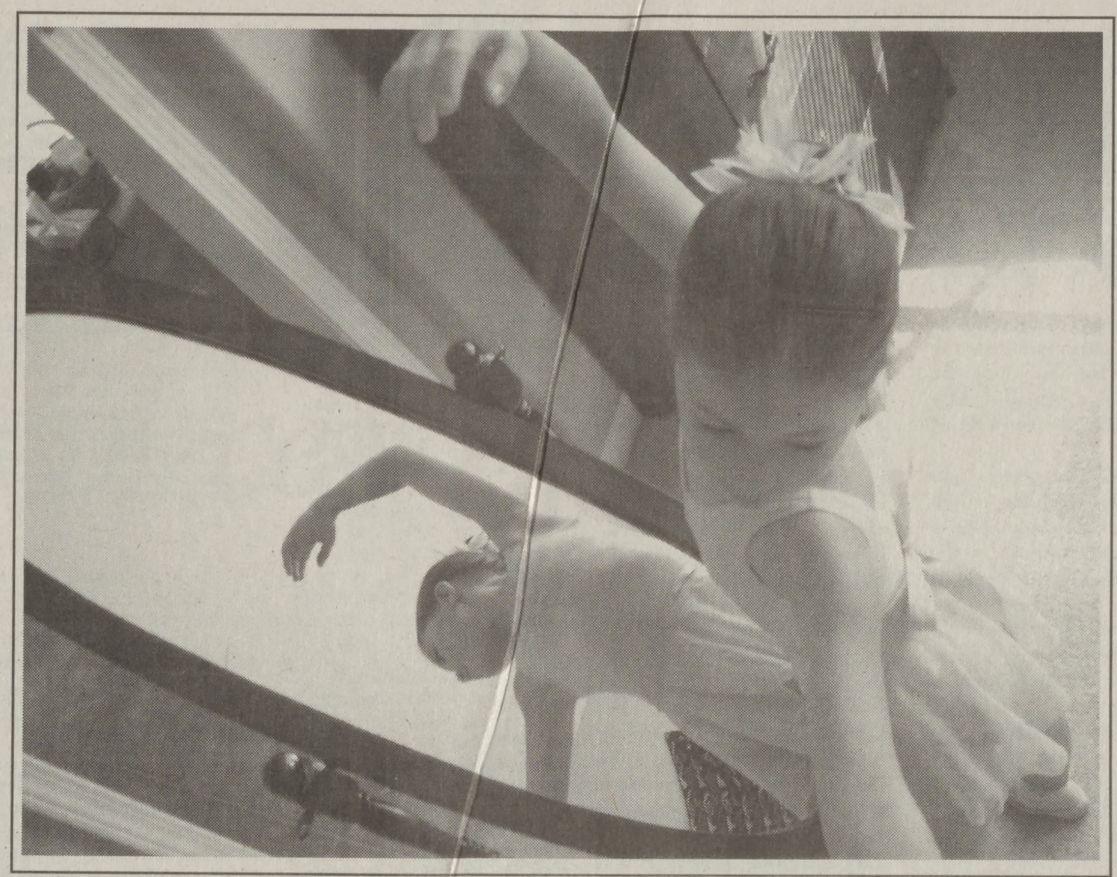
Winners in the 18-55 age group category for West Sacramento residents were (from first place) Betty Mitchell, Charlotte Dorsey and Andrew Clausen. Betty was also a third-place winner in the contest in 2003.

Winners in the nonresident category were (from first place): Ben Pacificar of Elk Grove, Robyn Flynn of Sacramento, and Al Baker of Sacramento.

Winners in the "working in West Sacramento" category were Adam Donovan of HMH Builders (general contractor for the new CalSTRS building), Linnea Wong of Design/Design with Fire, and Christina Harvey of the state Department of General Services.

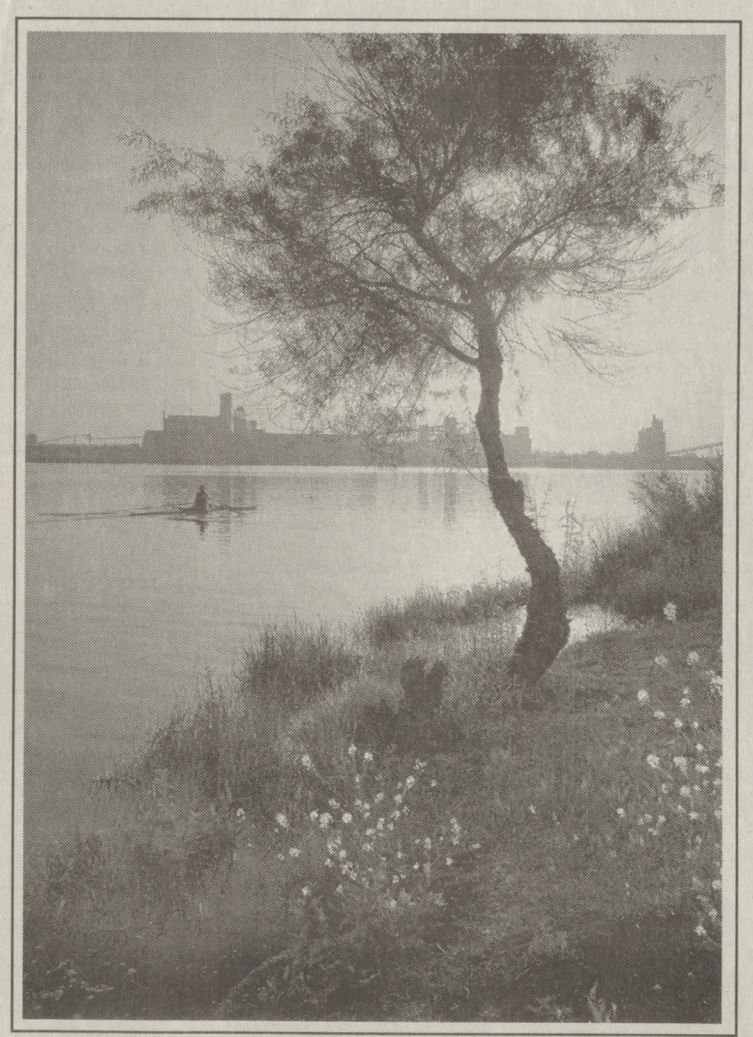
The contest required that the photos be taken between May 1 and May 15, 2008. The "Image of Health" category focused on a subject reflecting health and wellness in the city.

The contest was sponsored by the City of West Sacramento in association with Carwen Printers, the News-Ledger, the West Sacramento Press and 15th Street Fitness.



Elijah Dove's "Through the Looking Glass" is in black and white -- except for the image in the mirror, which is in full color. The image took first in 'residents under 18.'

Adam Donovan's 'New West Sacramento Skyline' took first in 'Working in West Sacramento.' It pictures the new CalSTRS building now under construction. (color)



'Morning Cruise' by Scott Schaffner took first in 'Images of Health.' (color)

'Healthy Harvest' by Danil Kozin. Honorable mention, 'Image of Health.' (color)

Children's Health

Healthful Eating

(NAPS)—By learning the ABCs of DHA, many parents are discovering a delightful way to protect their little ones' hearts, brains and eyes.

Including the omega-3 fatty acid DHA in the diet helps ensure that cells in the brain, eye, heart and other parts develop and function properly.

What It Is

DHA is an omega-3 fatty acid found throughout the body. It accounts for up to 20 percent of total brain mass and is particularly important before 5 years of age, when the brain increases approximately three-and-a-half times in mass. While many leading health authorities and pediatricians recommend 150 mg a day for children, most kids only get 20 to 30 mg, often because the foods that naturally contain DHA are organ meats, flaxseed and fatty fish that many children don't eat.

What's more, according to the 2008 Children's Nutrition Survey, conducted by Harris Interactive for Stremicks Heritage Foods, 68 percent of U.S. parents are not exactly sure what omega-3 DHA does and 59 percent of parents are not aware of the benefits of omega-3 DHA to their child's health.

What Parents Can Do

Fortunately, you can now get milk enriched with omega-3 DHA.

Registered dietitian Elizabeth Somer says, "Parents need to understand the importance of DHA and how to easily get the nutrient into their children's diets to ensure optimal growth and development. One 8-ounce serving of a DHA-fortified product like Heritage Little Einsteins milk provides up to 32 mg of DHA and helps parents ensure their children are obtaining adequate amounts of DHA in their diets."

Nutrition Tips

Somer offers several fun ways you can help your child get this important nutrient:

- Use fortified milk to make creamy tomato soup.
- Cook oatmeal in DHA-fortified milk. Add wheat germ and raisins.
- If your child doesn't like white milk, add a teaspoon of strawberry flavoring—and serve with a straw.
- Create fruit smoothies with DHA-fortified milk, a banana and a handful of strawberries whipped in a blender.

OPINION

NEWS-LEDGER EDITORIAL:

Bits & pieces

There's a brand-spanking-new sidewalk just north of Safeway.

It's on Jefferson Boulevard, over the railroad tracks, on a stretch of road that connects central West Sacramento to Broderick. And it's a long time coming.

For too many years, that busy road has been a place where a wide cross-section of people – students, seniors, parents with baby strollers – has had to walk along the road with little protection from fast-moving cars.

The new sidewalk may save a life or two.

West Sacramento's chief "bean counter" retired this month.

Leigh Keicher was the director of the city's finance department since there has been a city. His skills and his conservative fiscal approach are among the reasons West Sacramento has often not suffered the full trials and tribulations other local governments in the region have suffered in bad economic times.

It's not every city, county or school district that has someone who actually "knows where the money is." But you could call Leigh Keicher with a question about the taxpayers' money, and you could get a direct answer, usually in something pretty close to plain English. He was the kind of civil servant you might not fully appreciate until after he moves on.

Some of the people we know who have the most distrust for "the media" are also among the quickest to believe what they see on the Internet. They're among the most likely to pass along some information they received in an email from a friend (it's from a friend, so it must be true!).

The email may have shocking "true information" about a presidential candidate. It may inform you that TV's "Mr. Rogers" was in fact a deadly former U.S. Navy Seal. It may purport to shed light on some terrorist conspiracy, or on the danger of spiders that lurk under toilet seats.

One responsible approach is simply to ignore these emails. An even better thing to do is check them out, and let the sender know if the email is fraudulent.

A good place to check out the "urban rumors" of the Internet is www.snopes.com.

Walking papers

It seems our experienced practitioner of Chicago-style politics has lost his most recent bid to ascend the ladder of power.

However, lucky us, we most glorious citizens are the "fallback position" for our most esteemed great leader. At least this time, after his most blatant campaign practices were exposed for the basest of political mudslinging, I do hope the good citizens of this fair community would give him his walking papers. Especially after his campaign tactics against our former mayor, and others, are viewed in light of his two most recent primary attacks.

Yes, I'm a conservative, and that means I believe in fair play.

J. BESHARIAN
West Sacramento

Thanks, Rumsey tribe

We are members of the Yolo County Veterans Coalition and represent most of the 11,000 veterans who reside in our county. We are members of the American Legion posts in Woodland and West Sacramento, Veterans of Foreign Wars posts of Davis, West Sacramento, Woodland and Winters, Disabled Veterans of America and the West Sacramento Women's Auxiliary.

We are very grateful to the Rumsey Community Fund and executive director Karen Charney for their very generous donation to our Coalition. This support will keep the Veterans Van in operation on the road for another year. [With the van], we pick up any veterans in Woodland, Davis and West Sacramento and transport them to their Veterans Administration hospital medical appointments and bring them back to their door, free of charge. We have two vans and run them daily. Last year, we transported over 1,500 veterans to their medical appointments. These veterans are mostly elderly and disabled, and cannot drive any longer.

We have had a tremendous increase in the use of this service as the fuel prices have put most low-income, disabled and elderly veterans in financial hardship. The Rumsey Community Fund has stepped up to the plate to support this very important operation. The V.A. offers very inexpensive and sometimes free medical care, but they are located at Mather, McClelland and Martinez. Donations like this help us make the connection between the patient and the care.

The Rumsey Band of Wintun Indians have shown a very high degree of community responsibility and they are working hard to make this county the best it can be for all residents.

Thank you from the veteran community of Yolo County.

TED PUNTILLO
Yolo County Veterans Coalition

Fairness for Hilary's voters

Convential wisdom labels the Republicans as using any possible dirty tricks to suppress the vote. Democrats are supposed to be the champions of the Constitution.

Remember the notion of one man, one vote? Evidently, this basic principle doesn't apply in Michigan and Florida, if Chairman Dean and other party honchos decree that Obama will be the nominee. The 18 million people who voted for Hilary be damned!

One political analyst smirked that all those "Granny Yokums" out there will "get over it" and vote Democratic in the fall. Maybe he should think again. "Granny" didn't spend the day in her rocker. She knew how to chop wood and chase away the varmints in her front yard.

Even as I protest, it's obvious I'm backed into a corner. In truth, there is no way I'd vote for John McCain.

Still, if Hilary is denied the second spot on the ticket, I predict a grand exodus of women from the party. And please stop comparing Obama to Bobby Kennedy. Bobby Kennedy was too honorable to accept a nomination based on a deliberate plan to run out the clock and block the voters in two states. Barack Obama is a good man and a great politician. But he is no Bobby Kennedy.

"The Strangers"

Running time: 85 minutes
MPAA rating: R

"The Strangers" is the debut film of director Bryan Bertino, and for a first-timer he does a pretty darn good job.

What Bertino does — that the majority of other horror-film directors don't do — is concentrate more on building up suspense rather than a body count. He achieves this constant, crescendoing tension not through CGI tricks, but with good, old-fashioned camera placement, editing and strong performances from his actors.

The result is a chilling tale of the home invasion and murder of a young couple (Liv Tyler and Scott Speedman) that will have you on the edge of your seat for nearly 90 minutes.

The couple, Kristen and James, arrive at his family's cabin following a wedding reception. Things are somewhat awkward between them, as James has proposed to Kristen, but she has turned him down.

While working out the sleeping arrangements, there is a knock at the door. A young woman of maybe 17 asks if Tamara is there. Kristen says no. A few moments later, another knock. It's the same girl. The same question. Soon more interruptions occur, each one more terrifying, until Kristen realizes — as do we — that something really nasty is about to happen.

And it does.

"The Strangers," while not really adding much to the genre, is a solid, chilling and in parts unsettling example of a competent director knowing how to wring a few choice screams and gasps from his audience.

Mustang: The Saga of the Wild Horse in the American West
by Deanne Stillman
(Houghton Mifflin, $25)
Reviewed by Larry Cox

Wild mustang horses are among the last living icons of the American West. But at the rate they are being slaughtered, these wonderful animals could soon be extinct in our country.

Deanne Stillman, author of the previous bestseller "Twenty-Nine Palms," once again tackles a controversial subject as she examines the politically charged, heart-breaking story of the wild horse in North America.

According to the most recent guesstimate, there are approximately 25,000 wild horses on the range today in the American West. That is a fraction of the more than 2 million horses that inhabited our Western states during the final years of the 19th century. Since horses helped us win our wars, blazed our trails and even carried our mail, Stillman argues that they deserve a better fate than extinction.

This well-written, meticulously researched book traces the history of horses in North America. It is a colorful history that includes such equine and human characters as Comanche, the gallant horse who survived the Little Big Horn; Betty Lee Kelly and Bobbi Royle, two women who run Wild Horse Spirit, a sanctuary in Carson City, Nev.; Velma "Wild Horse Annie" Johnston, a Nevada secretary who has successfully battled for local, state and federal legislation to protect horses; and even President Richard Nixon, who was a champion of the environment and wild animals.

Stillman wonders why a war is being waged against one of our greatest partners. As she points out, legal protections for wild mustangs are quickly becoming a thing of the past, and the tipping point for extinction could be just a few years away.

This urgent, compelling and unforgettable book builds a convincing case that wild horses are an essential part of both our national history and character. Their loss would be impossible to calculate.

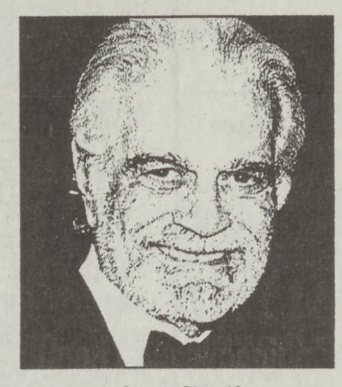
Jill Jackson's HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD ... Many of you remember Omar Sharif. "Doctor Zhivago," "Funny Girl," "Lawrence of Arabia" and on and on. Curly black hair, a sexy smile, and a very fine actor. He also is known in the bridge-playing world as one of the best. Out of action for a while, he is now coming back to the big screen. Older, with graying hair, graying mustache and a graying beard, he will star as Libyan resistance leader Omar Mukhtar, "The Lion of the Desert." A direct quote from Sharif: "I'm an old man now, and I'm trying to make films that mean something." And just in case you didn't know, he was born Michael Shalhoub in Alexandria, Egypt. AND from the pictures I have seen of him in recent years, he is still sexy!



Omar Sharif

On Friday, Sept. 5, CBS, ABC and NBC will air the same program. It will be live and hosted by network anchors to raise money for cancer research. We're on the brink, but not fully there yet. And every penny helps. The idea was set in motion by Katie Couric, Paramount Pictures' Sherry Lansing and ICM executive Ellen Ziffren. Titled "Stand Up to Cancer," watch it and give to it!

Ted Danson and wife Mary Steenburgen have been happily married and living in the Malibu Colony. (That's the posh, posh part of the posh Malibu area on the Pacific.) Now they have sold the Cape Cod-style manse for $18.5 million and will be moving. As of now, I do not know to where. But you do know, of course, that Ted played Sam the Bartender on "Cheers" for many years, making much moola. Mary also did very well in several films and won an Oscar for her role in "Melvin and Howard."

For those of us who grew up on the "Mary Tyler Moore Show," it was great to see the reunion on an Oprah outing. Mary, Ed Asner, Gavin MacLeod, Ted Knight, Valerie Harper, Betty White, Cloris Leachman and Georgia Engel. All a bit older, some with obvious face jobs, all hugging and kissing and reminiscing. And all still full of "spit and vinegar." Give that one four big stars!

Aside to Mildred F. of Kenner, La. You ask how long I think Harrison Ford can continue to play Indiana Jones. That's a difficult one to answer. First, as long as he wants to, but second, how long will the powers that be want him to. I suppose they can come up with several more scripts as he ages. So, we'll just have to wait and see. And yes, as far as I know, he and Calista are still together.

BITS 'N' PIECES: Tickets are already on sale for Madonna's Sticky and Sweet Tour, and it doesn't happen until November. ... Warner's is restoring "A Star Is Born" starring Judy Garland and James Mason. What a treat for a whole new generation! ... You don't have to believe it, but it's true. Early on, Sylvester Stallone was a beautician trainee. ... Sharon Stone is facing a boycott of her films in China after stating that she "didn't like the way China was treating ethnic Tibetans," AND then she added that she thought the recent devastating earthquake might be "karma."

Yummy Sundaes

Frozen bananas give the homemade ice milk such a rich and creamy texture, you won't miss the cream and egg yolks (the fat!) in regular ice cream. Best of all, you don't even need an ice-cream maker to whip it up.

- 4 large ripe bananas
- 1/2 cup low-fat (1 percent) milk
- 2 tablespoons honey

- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 2 cups frozen light whipped topping, thawed
- 1/4 cup chocolate syrup
- 1/4 cup low-fat granola cereal
- 4 maraschino cherries, for garnish

1. Peel bananas; cut each lengthwise in half; cut each half crosswise in half. Place bananas on large freezer-safe plate; freeze 1 hour or until firm.

2. In food processor with knife blade attached, using quick pulses, blend bananas, milk, honey, lemon juice and vanilla 1 minute (some lumps may remain). Spoon banana mixture into 9-by-5-inch metal loaf pan. Freeze 30 minutes.

3. Spoon mixture into food processor again; blend until smooth. Spoon mixture back into loaf pan; freeze at least 1 hour longer or until ready to serve.

4. To serve, spoon whipped topping into large decorating bag with large star tube. Scoop 1 large scoop banana ice milk into each of 4 dessert glasses or bowls. Pipe whipped topping over ice milk. Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• The next time you're in New York City and feel like indulging yourself, you might want to consider stopping by the Wall Street Burger Shoppe. That's the fine establishment where you can purchase the city's most decadent — and expensive — hamburger. This luxury starts with a pure Kobe beef patty and is topped with aged Gruyere chesse, wild mushrooms, black truffles and foie gras, and the brioche bun is topped with flecks of gold leaf. The price tag for this extravagant indulgence? $175.

• It was 17th-century Spanish writer Baltasar Gracian who made the following sage observation: "It is better to sleep on things beforehand than lie awake about them afterwards."

• If you're like the average American, you eat roughly 17 pounds of potato chips every year.

• If you're a man who shaves his face every day, you can figure that at an average of 10 minutes per shave, you spend 60 hours every year with a razor in your hand.

Fave Foods OF THE FAMOUS

LaDainian Tomlinson

Affectionately known as "LT" by his teammates and millions of fans worldwide, NFL superstar and future Hall of Famer LaDainian Tomlinson represents everything that's great about our nation's most popular professional sport. As a running back for the San Diego Chargers, his accomplishments on the field are already legendary. But LT shines off the field as well. He was given The Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year award, a prestigious title reserved for players who set a standard of excellence for community service and class. This year LT is working with Campbell's Chunky Soups, and will be featured in the "Working Day" campaign, a series of unique TV spots. To learn more: www.chunky.com and www.ladainiantomlinson.com

The motto of the new Chunky Soup campaign starring you is "Fill Up on the Good Stuff." So who on the Chargers can pack away the most food at a sitting?

"Any of my linemen can pack away a lot of food. Mike Goff is a chef, and he can cook a lot of different foods real well, so I'd say that he can put away some food."

Tell us about your meals the day before a game.

"On Saturday afternoon I try to have something light, like a turkey sandwich, nice salad or chicken breast. For Saturday dinner, I go for a big steak, maybe a filet mignon. Definitely something full of protein."

How could a team use food for training?

"I think we could take big baskets of food and put them on the ends of a weight rack. Everyone can lift the baskets, and the person that lifts the least has to eat what's inside. And it might not be a food the guy likes!"

Biggest guilty food pleasure:

"Definitely cookies and ice cream. I love warm cookies with a scoop of ice cream on top."

On the road, what's your favorite NFL city for dining?

"My favorite NFL city for dining is Philadelphia, because it has some great restaurants. You also can't go wrong with a Philly cheese steak!"
